RenewData[®] Promotes Executives to Strengthen Strategic Focus on Providing Proactive E-Discovery Services

E-Discovery and Compliance Industry Veterans to Lead Strategic Marketing and Technical Focus as Chief Marketing Officer and Chief Enterprise Architect

AUSTIN, Texas – June 23, 2008 — RenewData, the leading provider of e-discovery and electronically stored information risk management (ESIRM[™]) services, today announced the promotion of Robert Little to chief marketing officer and Matthew Davis to chief enterprise architect. These highly accomplished executives and industry veterans bring extensive experience and skill in the e-discovery and compliance industries to further develop and extend the corporation's strategic plans.

“Bob's and Matt's impressive credentials speak for themselves and I'm proud to have such accomplished professionals on our team,” said Steven Horan, chief executive officer of RenewData. “They both add extensive depth and experience from the e-discovery and compliance industries to the team. Their expertise in these industries is critical to the execution of our strategic focus on providing proactive ESI risk management and discovery services and I look forward to collaborating with them further on new ideas and initiatives.”

As chief marketing officer, Little is responsible for defining RenewData's strategic market vision and new marketing initiatives to drive the growth of our next generation of services. He joined RenewData as the vice president of marketing in 2007 and possesses more than 20 years of experience integrating software product capabilities with client needs and industry trends. Little has been recognized throughout his career for applying technology to meet compliance requirements in life sciences, healthcare, financial services, corporate governance, and litigation. He was previously at ZANTAZ, where he led the marketing organization and was a corporate spokesperson on the application of technology to meet compliance requirements. Prior to ZANTAZ, Little was at EMC and Documentum (prior to its acquisition by EMC), where he was the general manager of the Compliance Product Business Unit.

In his role as the chief enterprise architect, Davis is responsible for developing and delivering new technical solutions to improve and expand service capabilities for RenewData's solutions. Davis possesses more than 13 years of software engineering and software consulting experience designing and implementing highly scalable software applications and solutions, including more than eight years of e-discovery focused development. Davis joined RenewData in 2004 and has held various senior management and executive roles, such as vice president of technology where he provided vision, support, and implementation of all technology solutions and senior director of engineering, where he was responsible for integrating operations and engineering to ensure the success of development projects. Prior to joining RenewData, Davis worked for companies in the e-discovery and compliance industry such as iWitness, Inc. and ZANTAZ.
